

Drew Grantham of NC State Named EAGL Senior Gymnast of the Year

Grantham tops class of 2020 after leading conference with four All-EAGL team selections

DURHAM, N.H. (April 1, 2020) – The East Atlantic Gymnastics League announced senior Drew Grantham (Durham, N.C.) of North Carolina State as the 2020 Senior Gymnast of the Year on Wednesday, April 1. Grantham competed in every meet this season, contributing career-highs on bars and beam to lead the Wolfpack to the 2020 EAGL regular season co-champion title.

Grantham's season was capped off by a conference-high four All-EAGL first team selections for her work on bars, beam, floor and all-around. She led the conference on floor with an NQS of 9.910, took third on all-around with an NQS of 38.900, placed fifth on beam with an NQS of 9.840, and was eighth in the conference on bars with an NQS of 9.800. Grantham led the Wolfpack with 23 podium finishes and earned EAGL Gymnast of the Week three times, tied for most in the conference.

Grantham is involved heavily in extracurriculars outside of the gymnasium, serving as President of NC State's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC). She was also named to the EAGL All-Academic team.
