Gymnast of the Week: Senior Kendall Whitman (Pottstown, Pa.) of George Washington was named EAGL Gymnast of the Week for the fourth time this season on March 20. At the Towson tri meet with William & Mary on March 15, Whitman finished first overall on floor with a 9.975. Two days later at GW's quad meet on March 17, the senior recorded a 9.925 on floor for a second place finish against gymnasts from to-30 ranked programs #24 Penn State and #25 Towson. At both meets she led the Revolutionaries on all around, registering a 39.425 on the 15th and a 39.350 on the 17th.

Specialist of the Week: Senior Brooke Donabedian (Maple Valley, Wash.) of Temple picked up her second EAGL Specialist of the Week this season on March 20. At the New Hampshire's quad meet with Bridgeport and Brown on March 17, Donabedian earned her fourth win of the season on beam after logging a career-high 9.925. In six of the 12 meets she has been in the lineup on beam, the senior has scored 9.8 or higher. On floor, she posted a 9.875 which marked her 10th score of 9.8 or better on the event this season.

Rookie of the Week: First-year Maya Peters (Toronto, ON) earned her second EAGL Rookie of the Week award on March 20. At the Towson tri meet on March 15, Peters tied for third overall with a 9.925 on beam. She followed up at GW's quad meet on the 17th with another third place finish on the event after scoring a 9.875. The freshman also competed on bars, placing ninth with a 9.850.
